Bethel Park AYP Status

- The Bethel Park School District made Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP) in 2010, indicating that all schools are exceeding the State's requirements.
- All Bethel Park Schools, except Bethel Park High School made AYP in 2010. BPHS has been placed on the Warning List for the Special Education Subgroup in Reading and will be required to create an improvement plan for the Subgroup. All other Subgroups at BPHS made AYP.
- To make AYP, 63 percent of students need to score at the Advanced or Proficient level in Reading and 56 percent need to score Advanced or Proficient in Math.
- Writing and Science do not count toward a district's AYP status.
- All Bethel Park Elementary Schools have made AYP since they began testing at the third and fourth grade levels in 2005.
- All Bethel Park Schools continue to exceed the state averages at all grade levels and in all subjects.
- All Bethel Park Elementary and Middle Schools earned the Keystone Achievement Award from the Pennsylvania Department of Education for making AYP for two consecutive years (2008-2009 and 2009-2010).

About AYP

Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP), as part of the federal No Child Left Behind Act (NCLB), holds school districts accountable to students, their parents, teachers and the community. The purpose of AYP is to ensure that all students have reading and math skills that prepare them for the future. The law states that all students must reach the Proficient level or higher in Reading/Language Arts and Mathematics by 2014. School districts and schools must show AYP on several measurable indicators: Attendance or Graduation Rate, Academic Performance and Test Participation.

A school that misses only one measure will not meet AYP, but this does not mean it is a failing school. Rather, AYP indicates to school leadership that areas of improvement exist.
